Programme Notes – Millwall, Saturday 27th September 2025 – Rupert Thomas writes:

Welcome back to home turf at the Swansea.com stadium for today's match against Millwall.

We have made a decent start to the Championship season considering the number of players joining and leaving the club during the transfer window and the inevitable time needed for new team mates to build rapport and understanding. We go into today's game in 11th place at this early stage of the season, one place behind Millwall, with 8 points from 6 games. Today's encounter may well be challenging as Millwall are unbeaten away from home over 90 minutes in all competitions so far this season, with their only away defeat being on penalties against Crystal Palace in the League Cup.

Our stunning comeback win against Premier League side Nottingham Forest in the Carabao League Cup on 17th September, when we overturned a 0-2 deficit to win 3-2 in dramatic style in added time, was a joy to watch and shows the potential we have to make this a successful season. That result was sandwiched between a 2-2 home draw with Hull and 1-0 away defeat to Birmingham, games where we conceded late goals in added time that relinquished 3 points, which illustrates the fine margins that exist at this level. So far this season we have seen promising signs of purposeful attacking football and strong team performances that should yield more positive results over time as the squad gels and further develops.

These are exciting times to be following the Swans, thanks to the ambition and commitment shown by the leading principals of the majority ownership group Swansea Football LLC. With the recruitment of 12 new players in the recent transfer window, many of whom have already demonstrated their quality and potential, this looks to be our strongest squad for many years. Securing the involvement of Luka Modric and Snoop Dogg in the Club has raised the profile of Swansea City globally, potentially bringing significant footballing and commercial benefits. The majority ownership group recognises the key role the Supporters' Trust and wider fanbase continues to play in shaping the future of our football club.

The Trust has a range of projects, events and activities underway in conjunction with local stakeholders, building on the progress made in recent years. These include the Matchday Experience Working Group, our Swans Heritage programme, the updated Trust Strategy, Fans Forums, a Copper Jack sailing, and our most recent initiative of linking up with local travel company Vaughan Voyage to provide family friendly coaches to weekend away games such as Birmingham City last weekend and Southampton coming up on the 18th October.

If you haven't yet joined the Trust for this season, it's easily done at www.swanstrust.co.uk or stop by the Trust kiosk outside the West stand before kick-off on match days. As a member you will receive our regular communications, advance booking options for our events and can influence the direction of the Trust. We are always looking for people who would like to be directly involved in the work of the Trust.

We continue to provide team sheets from the Trust kiosk around 45 minutes before kick-off for all home games in exchange for a small contribution to our chosen charity Faith in Families.

Back to the match, let's get right behind Alan Sheehan and the Swans, and keep making the Swansea.com a difficult place for other teams to visit, to help us collect all 3 points today!

Enjoy the game!
